DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over US 6,761,950.

The reference discloses a dual-layered single-sided recording medium. See Figure 5. The dual-layers are formed of a first semi-transparent reflective film and recording layer and a second recording layer and reflective film. Both films may be formed of silver alloys high in thermal conductivity. See col. 19 for reflective layer 8 (second reflective film) and col. 27 for first semi-transparent reflective layer. It is recognized that the reference does not specify that the reflective layers have the same thermal conductivity. However, the layers may be formed of the same material which is highly conductive and the layer thickness may be varied to optimize their properties. Therefore, while the reference does not specify the thermal conductivity of each reflective layer, the structure is capable of having the claimed equal thermal conductivities.

Claims 2-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over US 6,761,950 as applied to claim 1 above, and further in view of US 5,645,909.

Art Unit: 1794

The '950 reference discloses the medium as described in the above rejection. It is recognized that the reference does not disclose a discontinuous reflective layer, i.e. a reflective layer formed on a partial surface of the recording layer. Nor does the reference disclose varying the thickness of the reflective layer over an area of the recording surface. However, the '909 reference shows that it is known to form a reflective layer on a partial area of the recording surface and also shows that it is known to vary the thickness of the reflective layer over the recording surface. See Figure 9 and 10 for layer 7. Eliminating the reflective layer on the sidewall of the grooves or forming the reflective layer in a smaller thickness on the sidewall reduces crosstalk. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to vary the thickness of the '950 reflective layer (or form it as a discontinuous layer). One would expect to obtain the improved crosstalk properties as is disclosed in the '909 reference.
